EMPEROR OF RUSSIA MAY TAKE COMMAND OF THE TROOPS IN THE FAR EAST IN PERSON

COURT ORDERS ORCHARD'S ARREST IN FARRIS CASE

Absence of Former Senator, Summoned as Witness in Bribery Proceedings at Jefferson City, Causes Postponement of Trial to Dec. 19.

JUDGE GRAVES INTIMATES HE WILL TAX COSTS ON WITNESS

If He Does the Absent Statesman Will Be Out About $800—Smith Case Also Goes Over—John A. Lee on Hand.

BY J. J. M'AULIFFE.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 5.—The case of State Senator Frank H. Farris, indicted on the charge of bribery in connection with the alum baking powder boodle deal, was today continued by special Judge W. W. Graves to Dec. 19, on the representation of Attorney Morton Jourdan that the defense's chief witness, former Senator James Orchard, is out of the state.

Mr. Jourdan stated that a subpena was sent to Poplar Bluff, Orchard's home, last Thursday and returned unserved Saturday.

Judge Graves said he would grant the continuance, while at the same time he ordered an attachment issued for Orchard and intimated that the costs of the continuance will be assessed against the Popular Bluff witness. Orchard, according to Mr. Jourdan, is in Arkansas on business, where he went Friday night.

Judge Graves held that it was unnecessary to serve the recent subpena on Orchard, since the summons for his presence issued when the case was previously called should be sufficient notice that he would be required to be here today.

Continuance Costs the State $800.

The cost of the continuance will amount to $800.

Orchard was chairman of the Senate criminal jurisprudence committee at the session of 1901, when, it is alleged, J. D. Kelley, legislative agent of the baking powder trust, paid through John A. Lee, then lieutenant-governor, but who has since resigned, the sum of $1000 each to six members of the committee, among them, Senator Farris of Crawford County.

In return, it is alleged, the trust succeeded in suppressing the bill to repeal the law preventing the use of alum in the manufacture of baking powder.

When the independent baking powder manufacturers bombarded the committee for the purpose of forcing a report, Chairman Orchard disappeared with the baking powder bill and his whereabouts was as mysterious to the general public then as it is now.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Lee who is now a resident of Evanston, Ill., was on hand today and Attorney-General Crow was ready to proceed with the trial.

Farris' Case Hanging Nearly Two Years.

The Farris case has now been hanging fire in the courts nearly two years.

Senator Farris was indicted by the Cole County grandjury April 18, 1903, and the case was set for trial by Circuit Judge Hazell at the July term. In July, 1903, the defense filed an affidavit alleging prejudice on the part of Judge Hazell against Farris, and Judge Graves of Benton was then called in to preside.

Judge Graves authorized a continuance to Sept. 5, 1903. At this date the case was again continued at the instance of defense to Dec. 19, when Senator Farris was placed on trial. No verdict was reached.

Judge Graves thereupon reset the case for March 22, 1904. On March 22 another continuance was granted the defense until July 29, 1904.

Lee was reported ill at this latter date and Judge Graves postponed the hearing to Sept. 5. Now the defense bobs up with an additional continuance plea, with the result that Senator Farris, who personally expressed a desire to go to trial, will not have to answer the charge of bribery until Dec. 19, or after the fall election is held.

LABOR IS KING AT WORLD'S FAIR AND LEMP'S PARK

Largest Celebration of Labor Day in Local History Inaugurated With Parade Through Downtown Streets and Exposition.

ANNUAL ATHLETIC EVENTS TO BE HELD IN STADIUM

Dance at Lemp's Park and Fireworks at World's Fair Tonight Will Complete Day's Festivities—Excursions Bring Many Visitors to City.

With two parades, one through the city's streets and the other at the World's Fair, union men of St. Louis had today the greatest celebration of Labor day in local history.

The two parades started almost simultaneously, shortly after 10 o'clock, one from Twelfth and Market streets and one from the junction of Louisiana Way and University Way, at the Fair.

The route over which the downtown parade started was north to Franklin avenue, east to Broadway, south to Arsenal street, west to Ninth street and south to the entrance to Lemp's Park. The Fair parade passed over the main ways of the grounds and disbanded at West Point camp.

The downtown parade was under the direction of the Central Trades and Labor Union and that at the Fair under the direction of the Building Trades Council.

Little Girl Nearly Stopped Parade.

A little girl who made goo-goo eyes at the stove molders as they were passing Seventh street and Franklin avenue came near breaking up the parade.

The attention of one of the molders was attracted to the child, who was very pretty. She smiled at him and he said: "She's making goo-goo eyes at me."

"No, she ain't; she's making them at me," said another.

"It's me," said a third. "I saw her first."

It looked like the parade would have to be stopped long enough for the little girl to tell who she really made the eyes at, but somebody yelled, "Three cheers for the girl with the goo-goo eyes," and they were given and the molders let it go at that.

The Ornamental Glass Workers looked almost as gaudy as the Indian chiefs at the Fair, with their badges made out of plate mirror glass. Each one wore several, and when the sun was shining on them the spectators needed smoked glasses.

The glass workers were preceded by a carriage in which four pretty young women were riding. One of the girls, as the carriage was passing along Franklin avenue, plucked a handful of fern leaves from the bouquet she carried and threw them over the heads of the crowd.

"Is that mistletoe," asked a young man.

"You bet," the girl answered.

"Let me in," the young man said, but the girl said the door was locked and she did not have the key.

The candy workers had a wagonette in which about sixteen girls and one man rode. The lone man seemed to enjoy his loneliness.

The bakers bombarded the spectators with buns from a big wagon.

The newsboys made up with noise for anything that they lacked in other respects.

Early in the day it became patent that the celebration would eclipse all others ever held by the union workingmen of St. Louis. Spurred by the certainty of great crowds from outside the city, the unions had made more elaborate preparations for the parades than ever before, and they entered upon the first stage of the celebration, the maneuvering into position for the parades, with the greatest enthusiasm.

As expected, early trains brought tens of thousands of visitors to the city, who either stopped downtown to see the Central Trades and Labor Union parade, or hurried to the Fair grounds to see the Building Trades Council parade. In either event the labor parade was the first on the program for the day's sight-seeing.

Crowds lined the routes of the parades, downtown and at the Fair, and the enthusiasm of the marchers was echoed back by the spectators.

George W. King was grand marshal of the World's Fair parade. His aides were: First division, L. H. Lacey; second division, O. E. Layton; third division, Michael Shannon; fourth division, William Bates; Fifth division, Patrick Connors; sixth division, F. W. Wyantt; seventh division, William J. Bentley.

The parade was made up of a detail of mounted police, the general officers of the National Building Trades Council and the Building Trades Council of St. Louis and vicinity, the Painters' District Council and the nine local unions of painters, seven unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Millwrights' Union, composition roofers, slate and tile roofers, marble, mantel and tile setters' helpers, hoisting engineers, electrical workers, steamfitters, gas fitters, sprinkler fitters,

LOVE LAMENTS LIFE LAID DOWN FOR FRIENDSHIP

Miss Anna Kruse Tried to Dissuade Edward Weidanz From Going on Fishing Expedition on Which He Lost His Life.

THOUGH HE COULDN'T SWIM HE TRIED TO RESCUE FRIEND

Eugene Reid, Who Had Fallen Into the River, Was Rescued in Nick of Time, Engine Carrying Him Unconscious to Physician.

True to the premonition of his sweetheart, Edward Weidanz, a hero, drowned in the Mississippi river at Grafton, Ill., early Sunday morning, while trying to save a friend.

Weidanz was 23 years old, and lived at 1826 North Twentieth street.

Saturday night he went fishing, going with a party of friends to Grafton, 40 miles up the river.

"Be awful careful, dear," said Anna Kruse, his sweetheart, who lives at 806 North Ninth street.

"All right, I won't go in the water," Edward promised.

"Be sure you don't, dear; I can't help feeling that something is going to happen you," his sweetheart said.

Weidanz could not swim a stroke. The girl who loved him knew it, and so did the mother and father who loved him.

That was why they were afraid.

The young men reached Grafton in the flush of a fisherman's joyful anticipation of the morrow. They were young and hardy and went down to a barge at the river bank to sleep. It would enable them to get their lines into the water with the first blush of day.

They pillowed their heads with their coats and slept on the barge. The night passed, and it was dawn.

"Help!" cried a voice of terror.

The cry was followed by a splash alongside the barge.

"It's Reid!" shouted one of the boys.

Weidanz was nearest the place where Eugene Reid of 919 Brooklyn street had rolled off the barge in his sleep.

Weidanz leaped to his feet, peered over the rail of the barge and saw Reid struggling in the water.

Between Duty and Promise.

Weidanz stood between his promise to his sweetheart and his duty as a man in that awful moment.

Would he keep his promise to her, or would he try to save his friend?

With her words, "Be awful careful, dear," ringing afresh in his ears, he leaped into the river to save Reid.

"Be awful careful, dear," rang in his ears as he struck the swift water, as the current whirled him against the barge, and as the very arms of death reached out of the black river depths to drag him down and down.

There was no outcry from his lips. He died there under the barge, while Reid, whom he had gone to save, struggled for his life, unconscious that Weidanz had leaped in to save him.

There were three other young men on the barge. Reid's cry as he fell and the flash of Weidanz's form over the side of the barge followed so quickly that both boys were in the water ere the others could leap to their feet.

These other three fishermen were Daniel Crafty of 919 Brooklyn street, John Beiser of 2209 Beiser street and Charles Hensleck of 904 Brooklyn street.

Only Reid was in sight when the others looked over into the water. Weidanz had gone under when he leaped, had drifted under the barge and was even then drowning, with his sweetheart's parting "Be awful careful, dear," growing faint and far-away in his ears.

Beiser and Crafty and Hensleck were quick-witted in danger. They knew it meant death to leap in beside the drowning man. So they snatched up their hand lines and hurled them out over the floundering Reid, trying to catch the hooks in his clothes.

"I've got him!" one of his compaions finally shouted, bending back with the weight of the man on the line.

Reid was hauled in. A hook had caught him in the throat. He was bleeding with an ugly wound, and was unconscious.

They pulled him up, thinking him drowned. But they were not giving him up without a fight for his life. A. C. P. & St. L. engine stood just above them on the railroad track. They carried Reid to the engine and the engineer made a quick short run up to the Grafton depot. Five minutes later a Grafton doctor was working with the unconscious man. Six hours later Reid opened his eyes.

"He's all right," the doctor cried.

Weidanz was found under the barge two hours after he was drowned. His brother George came in response to a telegram, and the heroic boy's body was taken back to his home Sunday afternoon.

The funeral of Weidanz will take place Tuesday afternoon from the family home. The burial will be in New Pickett's Cemetery. He is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Weidanz, and three brothers and three sisters, Will, John and George, and Mrs. Anna and Nellie.

Hardly less than that of the family was the grief of Miss Kruse, his fiancee, when she learned of the drowning. She broke down completely. She was expecting Edward to call, as it was believed that the fishing party would return early Sunday evening, when the news of his death was brought to her.

MAN WHO SACRIFICED LIFE AND FIANCEE, WHOSE PREMONITION WAS FULFILLED

STEELE AND MORGAN AND THE PRESIDENT

Wall Street Financiers Decline to Talk of Their Visit to Oyster Bay.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—To Charles Steele of J. P. Morgan & Co., at his home in Southampton, L. I., a New York World reporter yesterday said:

"The World printed last Thursday a report that you and Mr. Morgan had called upon President Roosevelt at his home in Oyster Bay and reached a certain political agreement. This statement was made after careful inquiry extending over two weeks. The President on Friday issued a statement denying the accuracy of the World's report. As you were one of the three prominent actors in that report, the World asks you to say whether it is correct or incorrect in whole or in part. The World assures you that any statements you may make will be printed in full, and that if the World's article was inaccurate it will make also proper retraction and explanation."

"I have made up my mind not to say anything about this matter," replied Mr. Steele.

The World reporter urged Mr. Steele to affirm or deny the report as printed, assuring him of the desire of this newspaper to ascertain the exact truth, and Mr. Steele persisted in his reply: "I will not say a word about this matter."

MR. MORGAN DECLINES TO ANSWER DIRECT QUESTION.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TORONTO, Sept. 5.—J. Pierpont Morgan, when asked by the New York World correspondent today if he had recently visited President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, replied:

"You should not ask me a question like that."

When the question was repeated in writing later, Mr. Morgan again declined to answer.

Weather Man Says the Clouds Have Disappeared for the Immediate Present.

More fair weather, gradually getting warmer, is the Labor day message from the top of the Chemical building. There appears to be an end in sight of the unseasonable low temperature of the past couple of days.

The official forecast: "Fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday."

It is generally fair throughout the country, with the exception of scattered showers in the South. The temperature has been generally low for the season, except between the Mississippi valley and the Rocky mountains, where it has been getting warmer. It is expected that there will be a gradual warming up for the next 36 hours, at least.

Artist James Archer Dead.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—James Archer, a noted painter, is dead. He was born in 1822, and visited America professionally in 1884.

"GOOD-BY, NO MORE TROUBLES FOR ME"

Woman, Unable to Control Her Temper, Left This Note and Then Swallowed Acid.

"Good-by to everyone. No more trouble for me. I leave my watch and money to my brother, Fred Meyer, Moser's Mill, Jefferson County, Mo. LIZZIE."

In a fit of despondency, caused, it is thought, by her failure to control her temper, Lizzie Meyer, 20 years old, who for the past three years has been living at 2840 Gravois avenue, committed suicide Monday morning by swallowing carbolic acid.

Her lifeless body was found an hour later by Mrs. Agnes Robinson, who resides at the same number. Beside it was the note and a partly emptied bottle of carbolic acid.

Mrs. Robinson says that Monday morning she became angry and threatened to end her life. She left the house a few minutes later, but as this had occurred many times before, little was thought of it.

When she failed to return at the end of an hour, Mrs. Robinson began a search and found her body lying in a shed in the rear of the house.

The body was taken into the house. An inquest will be held Tuesday morning.

The girl is said to have a gold watch and $50 in money, which she has saved from her earnings since she came to St. Louis three years ago.

TWO GIRLS OF 16 ELOPEMENT BRIDES

Brother and Sister Figure in Double Romance That Gets Father Arrested on Abduction Charge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., Sept. 5.—Frank Osborn, son of E. C. Osborn, eloped to Oklahoma last night with 16-year-old Dicey Ellen West, and at the same time Frank's 16-year-old sister eloped with Edward Love.

When Mr. Osborn, the father of Frank, arose this morning he found his daughter missing and an unsigned note, reading as follows: "Pa, don't be uneasy; we have gone on our wedding trip."

A warrant was issued from Judge Rogers' charging the Osborns—father and son—with abducting the West girl.

Mr. Osborn, Sr., says he knows nothing of the alleged abduction, nor did he know of the contemplated elopement.

He was released on bond and will have a hearing tomorrow.

FARMER DIES FROM WOUNDS

William Yokel, who was shot by highwaymen on the Olive street road last Thursday night, died at St. Luke's Hospital Sunday morning.

No trace of the three men accused of the shooting has yet been discovered, and the authorities have not even a description of them. Yokel's condition from the time he received his wound was such that he was unable to tell anything of the shooting.

The police are searching for a stranger who was seen in the vicinity of the place where the shooting occurred a few minutes afterward. They believe that he could give them some valuable information, but so far all efforts to locate him have failed.

Disasters to Kuropatkin's Forces Arouses Him So He May Follow Traditional Course of His Ancestors in Leading Soldiers in Person.

RUSSIAN RETREAT OPEN BUT FIGHTING CONTINUES

Indications Are Commander Has Saved His Troops Though Suffering Staggering Defeat—Stakelberg Extricates His Corps.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 5.—5:55 p. m.—The report was started today that the Emperor will go to the front, and it seems to have foundation.

It is known that the imperial train has been fitted out for a long journey.

It is one of the traditions of his house that the Emperor shall lead his troops in times of great perils to the nation.

His recent designation of his brother as regent in case of his death seems to lend color to the rumor.

According to the latest but unofficial reports some rear-guard fighting is progressing, and the retirement of Gen. Kuropatkin's main army is continuing.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 5, 2 p. m.—It is reported here, but not yet confirmed, that Gen. Kuropatkin was obliged to abandon 200 guns at Liaoyang.

Some of them, it is added, were damaged in the fighting and the rest were disabled by order of the Russian commander-in-chief.

The news from the front at this hour is very vague, and does not reveal the positions of the two armies.

The best that can be said is that there is not yet anything to indicate a decided change since last night, when Kuropatkin was reported to be at Tiehling, 22 miles north of Liaoyang and 18 miles from Mukden. He was with the vanguard of the retreating army, the bulk of which was near Yentai mines, 10 miles northeast of Liaoyang.

It is believed Kuropatkin's retreat line is open, although the Japanese are probably still trying to close it.

All reports indicate Gen. Stakelberg extricated himself from the Japanese enveloping movement.

RUSSIAN WAR OFFICE BELIEVES KUROPATKIN HAS SAVED HIS ARMY.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 5, 1:15 a. m.—The feeling of national grief and disappointment caused by Gen. Kuropatkin's unsuccessful attempt to make a stand at Liaoyang, deep and bitter as it is, is somewhat tempered by the development of the fact that the Russian commander-in-chief had removed the bulk of his stores northward before the battle, leaving a mere shell at Liaoyang, and that he succeeded in extricating his army, especially Gen. Stakelberg's corps, from the clutches of the Japanese.

The war office here believes that the battle is virtually ended and that Kuropatkin's line of retreat. While admitting that Kuropatkin suffered severe reverses, the war office considers the Failure of Field Marshal Oyama to hold and cut off Kuropatkin is a strategic defeat for Oyama. The Russian military authorities figure that Oyama had a numerical superiority of 60,000 men in the operations against Kuropatkin.

The exact position of the Russian right flank is not known at the war office, but it is not believed here that the Japanese can now develop enough strength to endanger its retirement, being without precise information themselves.

The absence of news from Tokio of anything decisive is also regarded as a good indication that Kuropatkin is free.

The officials of the war office do not expect a renewal of the fighting for several days, which they think the Japanese will employ in recuperating, while Kuropatkin collects his army preparatory to pushing the troops northward.

He has a double track railroad and the highroad. When the fighting recommences, it is expected here that it will be in the nature of a series of rearguard actions, as the final withdrawal is effected. There are no facilities at Yentai, where the Russians were reported to be making a stand, for defense.

According to the military authorities, all Kuropatkin's hopes and plans for victory were dashed by the wonderful rapidity with which Oyama's right pushed northward after crossing the Taitse river.

Here Kuropatkin's information evidently was faulty in believing that he had before him the whole of the Japanese forces which had crossed over to the right bank. He had already completed a preliminary bombardment of Kuroki's forces Friday and was about to strike him when he discovered that another Japanese column had crossed the river further upstream and he worked around still further northward. The latter column was marching with great rapidity westward to cut the railroad and close the door on the Russian retreat to Mukden.

Just at this point there is a hiatus in the reports. Whether Kuropatkin actually attempted to deliver a blow against Kuroki is not clear. At all events, if he did, he was compelled to desist upon the discovery of the northerly Japanese column. The latter took him by surprise.

Gen. Orloff's division, which suffered so severely, had just arrived from European Russia. Although this division was thrown into confusion and lost a frightful number of men, nearly 2000, the temporary check it was able to give the Japanese probably saved the railroad for Kuropatkin.

In the meantime, Kuroki, freed from Kuropatkin, marched hastily westward to intercept Gen. Stakelberg, who was crossing the river from the left bank. It was then that Kuropatkin thought Stakelberg's corps was lost, and so reported to the war office.

But Kuroki was too late. Stakelberg not only succeeded in getting his corps across, but marched at high speed to Yental, actually arriving in time to go to the support of the hard-pressed Orloff.

The war office professes ignorance of the losses of guns and men suffered by the Russians, but there is no doubt that many thousands have fallen.

The retreat of Kuropatkin has evidently thrown everything into confusion at the front and reports received are meager and incomplete.

The military expert of the Novoe Vremya says the chief question of the moment is whether Kuropatkin will succeed in collecting all his forces from Liaoyang and effecting a retirement from Mukden, in view of the flanking position taken up by the Japanese.

"Reinforcements," the papers says, "are undoubtedly arriving at Yental from the north. Our main hope lies in the possible exhaustion of the Japanese after the bloody and unprecedentedly long and severe fighting, which practically continued day and night, from Aug. 24 to Sept. 2."

RUSSIAN STORY OF THE BATTLE MENTIONS FIGHTING "IN VICINITY OF MUKDEN."

YENTAI, Sunday, Sept. 4.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The Russians evacuated their position around Liaoyang during the night of Sept. 3, crossing the Taitse river and burning the bridges behind them. In the meantime a strong force was holding Gen. Kuroki back from Yentai.

During the combined attack on Liaoyang, which commenced Aug. 30, by Gen. Oku attacking from the southeast and Gen. Nodzu from the southwest, the shell firing was terrific, in one instance 36 shells bursting at the same time.

The Japanese made a main infantry attack. They succeeded in reaching the Russian trenches, but were repulsed with heavy loss. The Japanese shrapnel, as a rule, burst too high. On the whole the day went well for the Russians. The Japanese were driven from the villages along the railroad.

On Aug. 31, the shelling commenced at daylight from all sides, but the Russian infantry pressed forward. Late that afternoon the news came that Kuroki was threatening the railroad at Yental and the Russians commenced to retire, enabling the Japanese to bring up two batteries and enfilade the Russian force along the railroad.

During the night the transport train moved into Liaoyang.

On Sept. 1 the Russians retreated from their main positions, which formed a circle around the city, while the transport crossed the river. At 2 o'clock the Japanese succeeded in placing two guns in position and shelled the railroad station, resulting in many casualties. At the same time the Japanese infantry attacked the Japer Russian position, but were repulsed. In the evening the Japanese brought up heavy guns and used Shimose powder to shell the Russian lines. The Russians held the position until the night of Sept. 2, when they retired across the river.

Sept. 2 a strong Russian force was moved from Yental to hold Kuroki back. Kuroki attacked it and was repulsed, being driven from his position on the left. The Japanese poured a terrific shrapnel fire, one shell annihilating two Russian companies. In the evening the Russian artillery, which had been reinforced, shelled the Japanese position, and Kuroki moved his right rearward and got within 12 miles of the railroad at Yental. Later he was driven back to his original position.

[illegible] during shelling occurred Sept. 3 in the vicinity of Mukden.

GOVERNOR WARNS COUNTY OFFICIALS

Declares If Bullfights Continue the Responsible Officers Can Expect Criminal Prosecution.

IS PROHIBITED BY STATUTE

Attorney-General Crow Declares There Will Be No Temporizing in the Matter.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 5.—Following a conference with Attorney-General Crow, Gov. Dockery this afternoon directed the sheriff and prosecuting authorities of St. Louis County to stop the bullfights, which, according to the management's announcement, are obe held daily hereafter until the close of the World's Fair.

Gov. Dockery expressed surprise at Sheriff Hencken's failure to prevent Sunday's exhibition.

"Bullfights are contrary to the law of Missouri," said the governor, "and under no circumstances will they be tolerated."

Attorney-General Crow said: "Unless the authorities give prompt and satisfactory assurances that they will enforce the law, I shall at once apply to the circuit court at Clayton for an injunction to prevent the proposed bullfights.

"There was absolutely no excuse for the authorities permitting Sunday's exhibition and they may as well understand now that they cannot temporize with this matter any longer. If necessary, criminal prosecutions will be instituted against the bullfight promoters and any and every officer of the law who may sanction them."

SHERIFF SAW BULLFIGHT AND APPLAUDED LUSTILY.

When is a bull fight not a bull fight?

The answer is not: "When it's a sham." Rather, judging from Sunday's performance in the new arena near the World's Fair Administration entrance, "When Sheriff Edward Hencken of St. Louis County sees it with his own eyes."

"Remember, ladies and gentlemen, this is no fake. If the advertised bull fight does not turn out to be the real article, and if you are not satisfied, you will get your money refunded."

A hoarse-voiced, leather-lunged "barker" had made this announcement for about the hundredth time when Sheriff Hencken, in the presence of four of his deputies, standing just out outside the entrance to the arena, announced in "gol-darn-it-I'm-the-law" tones that he was there to see that no bull fight took place and that no bull fight was going to take place. He said something else about what he was going to do, but his words were drowned by the harsh voice of the "spieler" assuring the return of everybody's money in the event the scheduled bull fight did not take place.

And there was no money refunded, and nobody asked for their money, and the bull fight did take place, and Mr. Sheriff Hencken and his deputies, who were among the most delighted spectators, did not do anything except clap their hands whenever the bull failed in his mad efforts to gore the picadors and matador. They yelled with delight when Matador Felix Robert's knickerbockers were ripped on the horn of one of the ferocious animals; they fairly screamed with laughter when one of the picadors was tossed up against the side of the arena and emerged unhurt, and they went into convulsions of mirth when one of the bulls, in a gallant charge upon one of his annoyers, butted his head against a wooden guard.

Occurred Despite Governor's Order.

If those who enjoyed the performance most will tell their friends about it the promoters of Sunday's bullfight may rely on the sheriff of St. Louis County and his deputies to become human megaphones in the show's behalf.

Members of the Humane Society, who were present at the exhibition, including Mrs. Mary W. Calkins, proclaimed the bullfight a violation of the law. They said they were powerless to prevent the performance without the aid of the sheriff, but that they would make strenuous effort to block a repetition. In furtherance of this effort, it was announced, Madame Cervera, widow of the bullfighter who was killed several months ago, would make a second trip to Jefferson City Monday and appeal to the governor.

Sunday's bullfight was pulled off despite an order from Gov. Dockery to Sheriff Hencken to not let it take place.

From a standpoint of humanity there was nothing offensive about the bullfight. It was not brutal as carried on in the bloodless method.

Three bulls were used and after they had been teased and chased about the ring until tired they were permitted to retire without receiving as much as a blow from their adversaries. No weapons were used.

Two Brothers Arrested.

Baptista Gilliberto and Joseph Gilliberto, brothers, of 1515 North Eighth street were arrested Monday on complaint of Rosaria Cocco, 19 years old, of 911 North Ninth street, sister-in-law of Battista.

ST. LOUIS SAILOR DROWNS OFF LAUNCH

Rudolph W. Schrader Thrown Into Chesapeake Bay From Battleship's Boat.

Mrs. Emma H. Schrader of St. Louis has received from J. G. Eaton of the battleship Massachusetts notification of the accidental death by drowning of her son, Ralph W Schrader, on which he had been since entering the navy.

He was drowned in Chesapeake bay. He was on the steam launch. It was coming out of the harbor of Annapolis with a loaded cutter in tow. Schrader was in charge of the cutter. In going aft a lurch threw him overboard. Lieut. A. B. Hoff and Yeoman W H Bicknell leaped overboard, but were not able to rescue the lad. The body was later recovered and will be brought to St. Louis for interment. Schrader was 19 years old. Congressman Bartholdt is looking after the arrangements for bringing the body to St. Louis.

BUSY TIME FOR BAGGAGE MEN.

8900 Trunks a Day Are Handled at Union Station.

Jerry Coakley, assistant superintendent of the Terminal Railway association, has been appointed official statistician during the remainder of the World's Fair season.

He has compiled figures showing the volume of business done at Union Station these exceptionally busy days.

The first statistical bulletin appeared Monday, announcing the extent of the baggage-handling operations at Union Station during August.

Mr. Coakley computes that 268,044 pieces of baggage were handled during the month. This is about 8900 trunks a day.

It is almost double the amount handled during August, 1903, and about 25 per cent increase over the number of trunks handled during July.

In August last year only 121,886 trunks were handled. In July, 1904, the number was 222,852.

WRECK VICTIMS' PROPERTY IS AT POLICE STATION.

After the wreck at the Sarah street crossing of the Wabash Saturday afternoon the police gathered up wearing apparel and other articles and took them to the Eighth district station. Twenty-ninth and Market streets, where the owners or their relatives can reclaim them.

The list, made up Monday, is as follows: Seven women's hats, five men's shirts, one watch, two pocketbooks (one containing 35 cents and a pair of scissors), an umbrella, a man's straw hat, two pairs of shoes, a window curtain, a bundle of women's clothing and a typewriter.

GRADE CROSSING INQUIRY TUESDAY

Coroner Unable to Secure Jury to Hold Inquests on Sarah Street Victims Today.

ALL HAVE BEEN IDENTIFIED

Seven in All Dead and Several of the Injured, It Is Feared, May Not Recover.

The inquest of the seven victims of the grade crossing accident Saturday afternoon at Sarah street and the Wabash railroad tracks will be begun Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

It could not be begun Monday because the day was a holiday and jurors could not be compelled to serve, and none could be found who would serve without the compulsion which can be brought to bear on other days.

Coroner Funkhouser and his assistants were not idle, however, Monday. Subpenas were issued for all the witnesses, and they were served, and preparations were made for a thorough inquiry. It is expected that the coroner's jury will fix the culpability for the accident in their verdict.

The two women killed in the wreck were identified Sunday. One was Mrs. Sophia Virginia Aldrich, wife of A. D. Aldrich of Indianapolis, 60 years old, who had been visiting the family of Frederick Mott of Cliff Cave, Mo. She came to St. Louis a week ago to see the Fair and was visiting at the home of her brother-in-law, D. W. Woods, at Glendale. Her funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon. Interment will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

The other was Mrs. Bessie Merkley of Trenton, Ontario, wife of John J. Merkley. She was 25 years old. With her husband she had been in the city ten days seeing the Fair and visiting her brother, J. Spring of Kinloch station. She was returning to Kinloch from a shopping trip downtown when she was killed. Her body will be shipped to Trenton Monday night.

There have been no more deaths from injuries, but seven are so badly hurt that their recovery is doubtful and their condition will not admit of them being removed from the City Hospital.

Patrick Sheehan, conductor of the Suburban car, spent Saturday night in jail, but was released Sunday on a $10,000 bond furnished by Julius Walsh and John Mahoney, officials of the Suburban.

Theodore Cook, the motorman, is still suffering from his injuries and cannot be moved, but he is being guarded by two policemen.

In addition to the injured whose names have been made public, Charles Strom and his 5-year-old son Erik of 7214 South street, Benton, received cuts and bruises. They were treated by Dr. Lattimer at the home of Mrs. Mary Evans, 4037 Clayton avenue.

The Transit company has placed two watchmen at the Tower Grove grade crossing, a point considered equally as dangerous as the Sarah street crossing.

The funeral of John W. Wilson, one of the victims, will take place from his late home in Kirkwood at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. That of George W. Majors, another victim, will take place from the residence, 2919 Big Bend road, at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. That of H. B. Culp, a third, will take place at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the residence, 4468 Page boulevard. Interment will be at Bellefontaine. M. B. Bristol and Adam McKinley, the fourth and fifth, will also be buried Tuesday afternoon.

WOODMEN FLAG IS UNFURLED AT FAIR

Four Thousand Members of the Order Witness Ceremonies Opening Society's Week at Exposition.

Nearly 4000 Modern Woodmen saw the American flag raised Monday over Camp A. R. Talbott at the World's Fair, named in honor of Head Consul A. R. Talbott of Lincoln, Neb. There are 200 Forester teams encamped at the World's Fair, a total of 3000 men.

Woodmen from all parts of the United States began reaching St. Louis Sunday, and they will continue arriving in the city the entire week, which is Woodmen Week at the Exposition.

The commanding officers of the Woodmen are:

Major-General John H. Mitchell of Ionia, Mich. Other officers are Adjutant-General M. W. Saxon, Topeka, Kan.; Dr. C. A. McCullum, chief surgeon, Minneapolis, Minn.; Col. J. S. Delong, Grand Rapids, Mich.; judge advocate-general; Brigadier-General J. H. Liggett, Des Moines, Io.; Brigadier-General S. F. Strawn, Pontiac, Ill.

The big day of the week for the Woodmen will be Thursday, when it is expected over 50,000 members of the order will be in St. Louis and will attend the exercises at the Fair. A large parade is planned, and the officers say that it will be more than two miles in length, composed of uniformed men, marching 16 abreast.

The teams are coming uniformed especially for this parade, although there will be exhibition drills on the Plaza St. Louis each day of the week. As rapidly as teams arrive they are taken to Camp Talbott, which is at the Model Campgrounds, and is under strict military discipline.

The competitive drills are exciting the attention of Woodmen from all over the country. Prizes aggregating $5000 are offered for the best drilled and most handsomely uniformed teams. The prize drills commenced on the Plaza St. Louis Monday, and will continue each day until the end of the week.

The teams will be judged by the following regular army officers:

From Fort Leavenworth, Kan.: Maj. D. E. McCarthy, contracting quartermaster, United States army; Maj. D. H. Boughton, Eleventh Cavalry, Institute Staff College; Maj. Omar Bundy, Sixth United States Infantry; Capt. T. R. Rivers, Fourth United States Cavalry; Capt. W. K. Jones, Sixth United States Infantry; Capt. B. W. Atkinson, Sixth Infantry.

From San Francisco, Cal.: Capt. W. P. Bunham, Twentieth United States Infantry.

From Fort Houston, Tex: Capt. H. E. Ely, Twenty-sixth United States Infantry.

From Davenport, Io.: Capt. E. M. Sutley, Fourteenth United States Cavalry.

John Mitchell—Samuel Gompers.

The portraits of these two great labor leaders will be reproduced in fire by Pain at tonight's pyrotechnical display in the Stadium, World's Fair grounds. Exhibition begins at 7:45 o'clock. Admission free. Seats 10 cents.

WORKMAN BURIED BY A FALLING WALL

One Fatally Injured and a Score Have Narrow Escapes in Building Collapse in East St. Louis.

TOOK HOUR TO EXTRICATE MAN

Cave-in Occurred at Swift Packing House Just as Men Were Reporting for Work.

One man was probably fatally injured and a score had narrow escapes from being struck by flying bricks as the result of the sudden collapse of the north wall of a two-story building adjoining Swift's packing house in East St. Louis Monday morning.

The injured man, Wellan Michael, aged 35, who address is not known to the police, was buried under the falling wall and it required an hour's work to extricate him. He was taken to Henrietta Hospital in East St. Louis, where it was found his left leg was broken and that he was suffering from internal injuries. Physicians say his injuries will probably prove fatal.

The building, the wall of which caved in, is used as a fertilizer plant. It adjoins the main packing house of Swift & Co.

No one was in the building when the wall fell except a watchman, and he was uninjured.

The accident occurred at 7:30 o'clock, just as men were coming to work at the plant.

Michael, who was employed as a storekeeper, was standing close to the wall when it fell, and was buried under tons of bricks.

After the collapse the east, south and west walls of the building remained standing and the floors also remained in place. The interior of the building was not damaged.

Packing-house officials have begun an investigation of the cause for the wall's collapse, which is thus far unexplained.

LABOR'S GREAT MARCHING HOST

pipe coverers, plumbers' laborers, plasterers, lathers, cut stone laborers, derrick men, stonemasons, East St. Louis Building Trades Council and affiliated organizations and the Alton Building Trades Council.

The parade at the World's Fair was an hour passing the reviewing stand. The marchers represented all the building trades and were gaily uniformed.

The parade was reviewed by President Francis from the steps of the Louisiana Purchase monument, on the Plaza St. Louis. He was accompanied by Judge Franklin Ferriss, Secretary Walter B. Stevens and Gen. Rice and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Francis.

The Parade Downtown

The paarde was followed by the twelfth annual athletic meet of the Building Trades Council at the Stadium.

The downtown parade formed as follows:

Detail of mounted police, delegates to the Trades and Labor Assembly, delegates to the Building Trades Council and Bartenders' local union, three unions of retail clerks, beer bottlers, brewers and maltsters, cigar makers, cigar packers, three unions of electrical workers, 20 unions of teamsters, barbers, cattle butchers, meatcutters, bill posters, theatrical brotherhood, metal polishers, stove mounters, steel range workers, horseshoers, carwheel molders, iron, steel and tin workers, boiler makers, stove molders, seven unions of Amalgamated Woodworkers, upholsterers, granite, cement and concrete workers, two unions of garment workers, ladies' garment cutters, three unions of boot and shoe workers, six unions of candy workers, awning workers, wire rope workers, drum corps and newsboys' union, carriage and wagon workers, cracker bakers, brick, tile and terra cotta alliance, badge makers, brushmakers, broom and whisk makers, flour and cereal mill employes, stone pavers, building employes and soda water drivers.

After this parade there was a celebration lasting through the day and it will be continued in the evening at Lemp's Park.

CROWD TOSSED COINS INTO STRIKERS' CONTRIBUTION FLAG.

There was one man who was not pleased by the blockading of the street cars at Twelfth and Locust streets. He fumed some when the car on which he was a passenger came to a stop, but when he saw that it was going to stay there until the parade was past he settled himself and showed his contempt for the whole proceeding by reading his newspaper ostentatiously.

He was prosperous looking and the expression of studied displeasure on his face was not lost on the paraders as they passed the car. He was not bothered until a float of the Teamsters' Union came along. There were a number of pretty girls on it, and they held slender canes in their hands, which they waved in answer to the plaudits of the crowd.

One of the girls saw the disgusted man reading his paper. She thrust her cane between the windows bars and flipped the paper out of the man's hands. He started and glared. The girl smiled mockingly at him and the crowd cheered.

Six cakewalking barbers made a hit along the line. They were at the head of the Barbers' Union, all of the members of which were dressed in white, with black braid trimming, and white caps. The six in the front rank cakewalked whenever the band played ragtime, and did it very well.

The cab drivers showed a cartoon of "the man who took our places," having references to their strike of last winter.

Flag Was Used as Contribution Box.

In front of the Butchers' Union was carried a contribution flag. A big American flag was carried by four men, one at each corner, in such a way as to catch coins thrown by the crowd to help the butchers in their fight against the packers. The contributions were liberal, and it looked like the four men would need help before the route was finished.

One of the butchers, with a timid wife who did not want him killed, was vastly embarrassed by the efforts of his wife to prevent him from starting in the parade astride a spirited black horse.

As the butchers were falling into line a band started to play near the black horse, and it capered around Twelfth street in a manner that was quite terrifying, particularly to the wife of the rider. She rushed out of the crowd, after the horse had quieted somewhat, and begged "John" not to ride the horse.

"You will be killed if you do, John," she said. John thought himself it was a little risky, but he would a good deal sooner have been killed than dismount there.

"Go on back," he pleaded with his wife. "You're making a fool of me. I won't get hurt."

Reluctantly the woman released her hold on the bit and John galloped away to overtake his union. His wife looked lingeringly after him, as if she did not expect to see him alive again.

MEXICAN CANE VENDER COULDN'T SHOW THE LABEL.

A vender of Mexican canes appeared in the ranks of the paraders as they were forming into line at Twelfth and Market streets and offered his wares for sale at 5 cents each.

A big truck-driver seized him and lifted man and canes into the air.

"Show me the union label on those canes," he demanded.

The frightened peddler searched his stock, but was unable to discover the badge.

"Git!" said the truck-driver, and the cane-vender disappeared, thankful to get away.

As the truck-drivers were forming at Twelfth and Market streets, all clad in blue shirts, they saw one of their union members standing in the crowd of spectators.

"Why aren't you in line?" they demanded.

"This is the reason," he said, pointing to a white shirt he wore.

"My brother, Bill, got my blue one," he continued, by way of explanation, "so I had to take his white one."

DESTROYED MILLS TO DEFEAT STRIKERS

Mississippi Man, Tired of Quarreling With Employes, Explodes Charge of Dynamite Under Plant.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MERIDIAN, Mass., Sept. 5.—To defeat about 100 employes who have harassed him for more than a month, Moss Graham, the wealthy owner of Highwood Lumber Mills, in Jones County, blew up the extensive machinery with dynamite. He expressed intense pleasure over his final victory and will retire from business.

The employes struck for higher wages in July and the mills shut down. The strikers were living on Graham's land and he had the sheriff clear them out, but they merely moved across to adjoining land and went into camp, making threats against any other laborers Graham might engage for the season opening.

A number of depredations on his property have occurred.

Biggest West of the Mississippi.

In holding up the garbage bill the House of Delegates has made another stench of itself.

Charlie Fairbanks is pleased with the prospects of his party in Missouri, but he will continue to hold on to his senatorship.

St. Louis was not dee-lighted with the Walbridge administration. How much joy would a Walbridge state administration bring?

The registration in the precincts on Sept. 19, 20, 21 and 22 is a new registration. Only those who register then can vote in November.

THE SARAH STREET CATASTROPHE.

Every incident in connection with the terrible accident at the Wabash Sarah street crossing emphasized all that the Post-Dispatch has repeatedly urged regarding these deadly grade crossings.

At the time it was proposed to lay extra tracks by the Wabash railway over this crossing and run the shuttle trains at frequent intervals, the Post-Dispatch called attention to the danger and demanded that the crossing be then abolished, by lowering the railway track and bridging it for the street cars. There was then time to do this, but the warning went unheeded.

As to this accident itself, there was gross carelessness and recklessness somewhere. Every official tries to cast the blame on someone else, but the fact remains that someone took chances, and the evidence should show who is to blame.

With trains running on the schedule of the Wabash shuttle trains, safety at grade crossings is impossible. The habit of taking fearful risks, owing to the frequency of these trains, has already been amply demonstrated. Under such conditions, a catastrophe was bound to occur sooner or later.

Let the investigation be thorough, both in regard to the employes and the officers of the company. And then let the law take its course. Make an example. Punish those guilty of this atrocious slaughter.

The joint committee of the Affiliated Business Men's Association has called upon City Counselor Bates to take action in the matter of the retention of the garbage bill in committee beyond the 40 days permitted by the charter. If the sanitary committee of the House, by some form of action, has avoided the violation of the charter, its action in delaying the bill violates its spirit. The evidence points to a violation of the letter, and in refusing to act on the bill the committee is promoting private interests in defiance of the charter and of public opinion, and at a sacrifice of public interests. The situation throws in bold relief the character of the men who control public business in the House of Delegates. It is intolerable to the people of St. Louis.

LABOR DAY VIEWS.

Statements of labor union leaders in the Sunday Post-Dispatch agree that the past year has been a trying period, and that the coming 12 months are likely to be characterized by disturbances great and little.

The membership of the American Federation of Labor has increased by 400,000, bringing the number up to 2,000,000. It goes without saying that an organization of that mass equipped with money and intelligence cannot but be a force in the industrial world which must be reckoned with. And yet many of the leading union men admit that practical progress has been checked, if not suspended, in some directions by the activity of employers' associations organized to oppose the labor movement.

This is true, no doubt, and the collisions between the two opposing forces have brought into the field a third factor hitherto ignored—the general public.

There can be no permanent settlement of these questions until the right of all three—the public, the employer, the employe—are ascertained and carefully measured. It is a public question rather than an issue between two classes and the public interest must not be neglected.

No better plan has been suggested than one of conciliation and arbitration. Differences between reasonable men can always be composed by reasonable men. And the design of arbitration is to keep such controversies within the bounds of reason.

From the standpoint of the public interest—which, indeed, embraces both the active participants—the efforts of labor unions and employers' associations should be directed to such a system of pacific adjustment. It is the trend of the time. The public temper requires it. The interest of all will be served by it.

The petition for a reduction of the water rates to manufacturers has not yet been acted upon by the Municipal Assembly. That the rates in water for manufacturing purposes are too high does not admit of argument. They are so much higher in St. Louis than in competing cities that the cost is a handicap to the city's growth. The fault of the former bill, which discriminated in favor of a few large establishments, should be avoided and a new bill making the rates uniform should be framed and passed. Both justice and public interest demand uniformity in the rates to all manufacturers.

WAR IS COSTLY.

Japan is winning her victories over the Russians in Manchuria at a cost which staggers the nation. Count Okuma estimates that the war expenditure may rise to $1,000,000 a day and that next year's budget may exceed this year's by $300,000,000. He fears that the huge deficit forced by these heavy expenditures may impair the stability of Japan's financial system.

The increased burdens of the nation are not limited to war expenditures. The worn-out navy must be repaired and added to, in order that the fruits of the war may be secured. The army must be equipped anew. Corea must be guarded and the new responsibilities of the nation on the Asiatic continent maintained. Japan must be on guard against the aroused jealousies and suspicions of other nations, which means increased expenditures for army and navy.

Even if Japan is successful in all her purposes in Manchuria she will be as hard hit as Russia and, being the smaller nation, will suffer more from the blow. War is costly and weakening, whether a nation be victor or conquered. Expansion by war drains the resources of the conquering people. It brings new danger and heavy burdens.

The way of justice and peace is the only way to national prosperity and happiness.

Mr. Donnelly's order against the independent packers and allied interests and his remark, "Let the public eat rice," do not help the struggle of his union against the Meat Trust. Attacks on interests not responsible for the strike and not opposing but rather helping the striking organization's purpose, coupled with wanton disregard of the public's comfort and interests, tend to turn public sentiment against the cause of the strikers. No matter how just the original cause, unfair methods of fighting hurt the strike and arouse public sentiment against it. Mr. Donnelly cannot afford to antagonize the public and force the independent packers into an alliance with the trust.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Having been a constant daily patron of the Olive street car, both morning and night, would like to know if you could propose some suggestion to compel the police department to put a stop to boys catching on behind the street cars. Have the police been given no orders to suppress this dangerous practice? Something must certainly be done. While conductors are in the cars collecting fares, boys persistently stand on steps and keep passengers from getting on, or hang on behind. A PASSENGER.

ADVICE WANTED.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Could some of the many readers of the Post-Dispatch advise a young man in this case? I am engaged to a lady several years my senior. She seems to be deeply in love with me, yet every time I approach the subject of marriage, she tries to change the subject and postpone it.

Now, dear reader, what shall I do? I love her very much, and think of her by day and night. Advice will be appreciated by a LONESOME LOVER.

THE FIRST WORLD'S FAIR.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In your issue of Saturday evening, Aug. 27, you have a communication headed "Bring the Old-Timers Together," and signed "Old Subscriber," which speaks of "the first World's Fair ever held in this country, which took place in Philadelphia in 1876." Why is it that so many times statements similar to this are made, and no reference made to the World's Fair held in the Crystal Palace at New York so many years previous? The Crystal Palace was a grand structure of iron and glass, and the World's Fair then held contained rare and valuable exhibits from foreign countries, and was visited by not only Americans, but by residents of other countries. The writer, then a child, living in New York, was a frequent visitor to this World's Fair. M. M. S.

BRING THE POOR IN.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I would suggest that a fund be raised, the same to be distributed to the worthy poor who haven't the means to pay for admission to the World's Fair, and such fund could be placed in the hands of, say, Mr. W. H. McClain, manager of the St. Louis Provident Association, who I am sure would gladly undertake to distribute the St. Louis Day tickets to the proper persons. This matter has already been suggested to you in one of your recent issues by a prominent citizen, and I trust the proper committee will take the matter up and carry out such a commendable act, which I think every right-minded citizen will be willing to take part in. As for myself individually, I have already selected a number of persons to whom I will distribute tickets, and would be also willing to subscribe to the contemplated fund.

W. C. D. C.—It would be impossible for the President to sign a bill on the 25th of this month. The President has ten days in which to sign a bill or veto it, and if he does not sign or veto it in that time, the bill becomes a law the same as if he had signed it. As Sundays are not included, Sunday cuts no figure in the matter. Congress sometimes enacts laws on Sunday. President Hayes was sworn in on Sunday.

W. J. J. L.—There is a famous prescription, well known in England, for the cure of drunkenness, by which thousands are said to have been assisted in recovering themselves. It may take months to overcome the appetite. The remedy consists of sulphate of iron, 5 grains; magnesia, 10 grains; peppermint water, 11 drachms; spirit of nutmeg, 1 drachm. Take twice a day. The preparation acts as a tonic and stimulant and partially supplies the place of the accustomed liquor.

R. E. A. M.—It is said of the Japanese: "When he became civilized in the accepted Western sense he lost his faith in the divinity of his ancient religion, which had become sadly perverted by the priesthood. He did not hesitate to discard the supernatural elements of the national faith, while retaining its moral code as an admirable philosophical rule of life. In a word, he became a skeptic who accepts the philosophy of Jesus without accepting His divinity or inspired mission. Thus civilization made the Jap an agnostic without being able to proselyte him to Christianity. The superior Japanese place the teachings of Christ alongside those of Buddha, Confucius, Menclus, and the other spiritual philosophers of the Orient, and, while trying to live moral lives, shrug their shoulders at the 'superstitions' of religionists whether Western or Oriental." Rev. Dr. McLaughlin asserts that there are 200,000 Christians in Japan, in a population of 45,000,000.

TILDEN'S MESSAGE TO PARKER.

Col. Henry Watterson of Louisville, has been to Esopus to confer with the Democratic candidate for president.

We wonder if the good, gray Kentuckian showed Judge Parker a most interesting letter that Samuel J. Tilden wrote to Col. Watterson in March, 1885, about three weeks after Grover Cleveland had been inaugurated President. In that letter Mr. Tilden discussed with more than ordinary frankness political patronage and political organization.

Of his own methods and achievements he said:

"I depended on ideas as a political force more liberally, and less on machinery, than anybody else has done. What is called patronage, I never had to any appreciable extent, and yet I held my ascendancy with the Democratic masses of this state when I had to confront the adverse influence of the executive, of the heads of departments, of the judiciary, and of the majority of both branches of the legislature and of one-third of the county leaders. I held, also, a majority of the voters of this state against at least 20,000 office holders."

Mr. Tilden was a most adroit and consummate politician—perhaps the most accomplished politician the Democratic party has produced since Martin Van Buren. But Mr. Tilden knew that campaigns could not be won merely by political machinery and backroom conferences. He knew that the man who appealed to the conscience and to the intelligence of the masses could defeat the man who placed his trust in organizations, wirepullers and precinct plotters. He knew, too, that the American people love a leader who leads.

It is easy to define what Samuel J. Tilden would have done in 1876 if a David B. Hill had undertaken to manipulate the machinery of Democratic politics in New York, to fly in the face of public sentiment by attempting to drag the judiciary into partisan politics and to jeopardize the success of his party by forcing the nomination of a Stanchfield for governor. He would have made an appeal in person to the Democratic voters of the state and they would have responded with the enthusiasm they have always shown when a great man representing a great cause places himself at the head of his party.

Samuel J. Tilden would never for a minute have permitted anybody to imperil the chances of party success by peanut statements, to punish his personal enemies and promote his personal plans. What Mr. Tilden would have done Judge Parker can do. The Democrats of New York are not less responsive to real leadership today than they were in Tilden's time.

WHY THE RAINBOW IS CHASED.

These are the days when the Democratic leaders in safely Republican states journey to the national headquarters to tell Chairman Taggart that there is widespread disaffection among the Republicans and an excellent opportunity to carry the state for Parker. Likewise these are the days when Republican leaders in Democratic states paint an equal seductive picture for the eye of Chairman Cortelyou.

An unsuspecting public vaguely wonders if all the Republican states are really going Democratic and all the Democratic states Republican, or if the state leaders have lost their heads.

No heads have been lost. The state leaders are as safe and sane as a cash register. They know their business, part of which is to squeeze a maximum sum of money from a reluctant campaign committee. The Republican leader in the Democratic state and the Democratic leader in the Republican state are always ambitious "to make a showing." The better showing they can make the less chance of their being dethroned by ambitious rivals. There is not much "fat" for a minority party in any success, and an appeal is made to the national committee to lubricate the wheels.

National committees do not like to throw away money. It is too hard to get. So the state leader begins his appeal by describing the dejected and despondent condition of the majority party in his state. The more he needs the money the more aggressive the minority party is represented as being, and the more tottering and impotent is the majority party.

Perhaps this simple explanation will assist the wayfaring man in arriving at a juster estimate of some of the reports made to the national chairman by visiting statesmen. There is a very old nursery story about a pot of gold at the end of every rainbow. The practical politician knows that the pot of gold is really there if a convincing rainbow can be conjured up.

The Growler's Platform.

A Brooklyn man has drafted this political platform:

1. The abolishment of piano thumping after the average respectable citizen has gone to bed.
2. Mussle cats after sundown.
3. Keep women out of the three last rows of seats supposed to be reserved in trolley cars for smokers.
4. Require surface car railroad corporations to furnish shields that will protect the feet of the sitters from standers.
5. Make women take their hats off in church, the same as is done in the theaters.
6. Organ grinders are prohibited from playing on the streets after 3 o'clock at night. Prohibit apranes from practising the scales after the hour that the organ grinder goes out of business.
7. Make it a misdemeanor for any boarding house keeper to serve boarders with hash or stewed prunes more than three times a week.
8. Tax bachelors.
9. Distribute the bachelor tax among the old maids.
10. Make all cigarette smokers over 16 years of age take out license, and lock up the others.

Satisfied.

"You must not expect me to give up my girlhood ways all at once," said the happy bride.

"Oh, I won't," he replied. "I hope you'll keep right on taking an allowance from your father just as if nothing had happened."—Superior (Wis.) Telegram.

THE FRENZIED PURSUIT OF BEAUTY

By Nixola Greeley-Smith, Granddaughter of Horace Greeley.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.

She was a very pretty little woman, and we had been discussing her various points, good, bad and indifferent, for almost an hour with great interest to both.

I had silenced a long wail on the futility of flesh foods, which she declared were "absolutely no good for what they were advertised for, but perfectly fine for chapped hands," by telling her that neither Pygmalion nor Phidias nor any other discriminating sculptor could have made a suggestion that would improve her figure, and had otherwise reassured her as to doubtful beauties, when she exclaimed in accents of despair:

"Well, any way, I have always wished that I had just a touch of consumption. It's so beautifying to the eyes."

Now, this woman was absolutely in earnest, and she has thousands of foolish sisters all over the world equally crazed by the pursuit of beauty, or what they imagine to be beauty.

Multiple as the summer sands are the victims of that greatest foe of womankind—the peroxide bottle. To be sure the green and pink haired freaks its unskilled use produces no longer mince along Broadway in all their green and pinkness—for their locks have become red and yellow and purple, in humble imitation of the carefully hennaed beauty who now reigns supreme, or in a last burst of sanity have dyed back to a dead-leaf semblance of their original color. It is the hairdresser quite as often as the woman herself who is responsible for the chameleon quality of the modern beauty's much-stained locks.

I remember going with a girl who had an unusual quantity of soft brown hair to have it shampooed, and hearing the dapper German say as he got through: "Wouldn't you like just a touch of red in your hair, madam? I could do it in three applications. You see, while you have what we call a good plain shade of hair," he added with deprecating frankness, "it ain't by any means a fancy shade."

In this instance his suggestion was not adopted, but no doubt the ghosts of thousands of parti-colored freaks will point accusing fingers at him "when the sun grows old, and the stars are cold and the leaves of the judgment book unfold."

The worst of it is that he no longer confines his ministrations to the theatrical contingent, but numbers thousands of patrons among working girls.

Another result to the beauty craze is the mad rush to the manicure. There are girls making less than $8 a week, and actually living on what they earn, who spend 50 cents or $1 weekly to have a pink, impossible, vulgar polish put on their nails which they subsequently preserve in a highly lustrous condition by shining them up in the elevated or street cars.

"But," queries the frenzied devotee of beauty, "don't you think it is every girl's duty to look just as well as she can?"

And it is, but not to devote all her waking thoughts to looking as much as possible like a chorus girl.

There are countless extremely pretty chorus girls, to be sure, but they dress to meet special conditions of their profession, and the nonprofessional women who imitate them generally make themselves appear ridiculous.

A disconsolate young woman complained to me the other day of one friend of hers with this slavish devotion to things theatrical.

"I'm ashamed to go on the street with her," was her plaint. "I asked her to lunch with me the other day at the Waldorf and this is what she came in: A white point d'esprit waist, a lavender silk, bolero-trimmed with great bunches of chenille, a black and white 10-cents-a-yard gingham skirt and a great big theatrical-looking green hat. Yet her husband has plenty of money and she has more pretty shirtwaist suits than any woman I know."

The sumptuous costumes of recent stage productions seem to have had a bad effect on general feminine dress. A certain exaggeration is essential to good stage effects, and there are a great many women who copy stage gowns without toning them down—and this tendency of the beauty-mad woman is as much to be deplored as her stained hair and nails.

Accident Prevention.

An association for the prevention of accidents in factories exists in Normandy, with headquarters in Rouen. The society was formed in 1869, with ten members and a capital of $2000. The association is supported by its members, who pay as follows: For spinning mills of 10,000 spindles, $20; for spinning mills of 20,000 spindles, $30; for spinning mills of 50,000 spindles, $60; for weaving mills of 100 looms, $7; for weaving mills of 200 looms, $13; for weaving mills of 500 looms, $28. In industries not classed the payment is $2 for a factory employing one to 10 workmen, and a larger but proportionately decreased sum for larger establishments, up to those employing one to 1000 workmen, for which the payment is $20.

In exchange for this membership fee the association sends inspectors periodically to all the mills and workshops of its members, communicates advice as to the best means to safeguard the workmen, and furnishes information relative to accidents in such workers.

ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE FOR HOME READING

MONDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 5, 1904.

"I see," said the Society Girl, "that a bridegroom on his honeymoon is charged by the police with being a confidence man."

"That charge is not unusual," said the Club Woman, "but it usually is made by the wife in a divorce petition. I want to tell you, though, about a young friend of ours. He has a really good position, but he doesn't like it at all. He thinks he is capable of something much higher and better. He feels that there is a Great Work somewhere for him in the world and he yearns for it so that he can't take any interest in his present duties. He is sure that some Noble Profession is his Affinity.

"Mr. Brown says that if he meets his Affinity and tries to strike up an acquaintance, she is likely to give him a haughty stare and call a policeman.

"He says that if a young man is associated with an uncongenial Day's Work there are three ways out for him: He can walk out, climb out or be pushed. If he walks out the chances are the pedestrian habit will grow on him so that his need of a new pair of shoes will antedate his ability to buy them.

"If he continues to be so indifferent to his environment that he has a glad look only when he glances toward the cashier's window, he will be pushed out. Mr. Brown says he never yet knew a man in that predicament who was provided with a parachute.

"How does one climb out? Well, that's just what I asked Mr. Brown. He said the only way he knows is to tackle the Day's Work, wrestle it to a standstill and then push it over against the partition you want to surmount and use it for a stepping stone.

"I told him that business life had made him hard and unsympathetic. Perhaps there was a Great Work waiting somewhere for our friend. Mr. Brown said he was sure there was, and that it must be getting awfully tired waiting. He even knew where it was."

"Where?" asked the Society Girl.

"Directly in front of him, every day."

"But why," asked the Society Girl, "should a confidence man remind you of a youth who shirks his work?"

"In the long run," said the Club Woman, "neither deceives anyone so much as he fools himself."

THE WORLD'S WARRIORS.

Lieut. Bilse's book describing life in a German garrison has led to much discussion of the alleged degeneracy of the German army. Two well-known critics have recently argued that Germany is destined some day to a rude awakening. Gen. Ricciotti Garibaldi believes that the blow is to come from France. Wolf von Schierbrand maintains that the vainglorious, dissolute, overbearing, cowardly Prussian junkers and soldiers of 1806 have their counterparts in the German officers of today. Describing the soldier of 1806 in an address to a gathering of his generals at Berlin four years ago the present Emperor said: "The glorious soldiers of Frederick the Great had fallen asleep on their laurels, ossified in the trivial details of a senseless, antiquated drill; led by superannuated, unready and unwarlike generals; their officers no longer used to serious work had degenerated by luxury, sloth and blind self-glorification." Yet Wilhelm II is himself the chief sinner, if Von Schierbrand is to be believed. A military correspondent says that the nobility hold an abnormal number of the higher appointments in the German army. Of of 168 infantry regiments of the Prussian army there are not fewer than 32 whose tradition is to exclude officers of bourgeois origin and the custom is gaining strength.

As a result of the quarrel which recently led to the curt dismissal of Lord Dundonald, the British general officer commanding the military forces in Canada, the Canadians have been confronted with the unsuspected fact that their military organization is largely a skeleton. Lord Dundonald declared that although there are more than 200,000 able-bodied Canadians who have served in the militia and are available for service, there are in the dominion not enough rifles to supply the 40,000 men now in the service. There are no large guns, no general equipment worthy of the name and only a single cartridge factory to draw upon for supplies. This statement has excited widespread indignation among Canadians, whose manifest purpose is to insist upon a sweeping reform in the entire system of militia administration. It is proposed hereafter to depend upon home talent for the command of the militia, and Lord Dundonald promises to be the last imported British soldier to hold the position of commander-in-chief.

Plans are being draw in the bureau of ordnance at Washington for the resighting of all the guns of the United States navy. The cost of this work will be tremendous, but its necessity was readily realized when called to the attention of the President and the orders have already been issued. An improved variety of sight will be used and the work will be pushed with all the rapidity practicable. For the rapid-fire guns a telescopic sight will be used, of a kind that will permit of continuous aim. Nearly all of the guns are in need of resighting.

Essays by Children.

A boy who was required to write an essay on hens produced the following: "Hens is curious animals; they don't have no nose nor no teeth nor no ears. They swallow their wittles whole and chew it up in their crops inside of 'em. The outside of hens is generally put into pillers, and into feather dusters. The inside of a hen is sometimes filled with marbles and shirt buttons and such. A hen is very much smaller than a good many other animals, but they'll dig up more tomato plants than anything that ain't a hen. Hens is very useful to lay eggs for plum puddings. Hens have got wings and can fly when they get frightened."

A little girl wrote the following essay on boys: "Boys are men that have not got as big as their papas and girls are women that will be ladies by-an-by. When God looked at Adam he said to himself, 'Well, I think I can do botter if I try again,' and he made Eve. Boys are a trouble. They wear out everything but soap. If I had my way the world would be girls and the rest dolls. My papa is so nice that I think he must have been a little girl when he was a little boy. Man was made, and on the seventh day he rested. Women was then made, and she has never rested since."

"It's no use."

Almost Out of Shellfish.

From the New York Times.

Ex-Justice Julius M. Mayer is very fond of things that come out of the sea, and while in Chicago recently at the Republican convention he sought to indulge his tastes in one of the well-known restaurants there. After a survey of the menu he called one of the waiters and ordered a portion of Little Neck clams.

"Very sorry, sir," said the waiter; "but we're out of clams."

"Bring me a nice broiled lobster, then," said the judge.

"There isn't a lobster left," said the waiter.

"This is very annoying," said Judge Mayer, taking apother survey of the bill of fare. "Let me have some soft-shelled crabs."

"We're out of soft-shelled crabs, too," replied the waiter, looking rather shamefaced.

"Then why do you keep these things on the bill? Have you any shell-fish at all?" he demanded.

"Only eggs, sir," replied the waiter.

"Do you think," queried the old lady, "the time will ever come when all nations will get together and bury the hatchet?"

"They may bury the hatchet," replied the man who had been reading the war news, "but they will never inter the rapid-fire guns."—Chicago News.

The Song of the Vegetarian.

From the Journalist.

O leave these gruesome scenes of woe,
Encarnadined with gore
And come where tender tubers grow,
Where burgeon beets and onions blow
When white potatoes bud in snow
And peas their perfume pour!

We'll feast, but not on murdered meat,
Assassinated foul,
Nor slaughtered fish in our retreat.
These phagademous joys depiete
The spirit and transformity fleet
To vampire or to ghoul.

We'll drink, though not the bowl despised
Where lurks the demon, rum!
But milk, completely Pasteurized,
The juice of apples sterilized,
Or chamomile, well-appetized
With spice and cedar gum.

Our board shall groan with glorious cheer,
Huge roasts of royal squash,
Ragouts of parsnip, corn in ear,
With peanut butter, pure and clear,
Filet of cabbage, ginger-beer
And hickory nut goulasch.

Beans lyonnaise, greens mayonnaise
And mushrooms en brochette,
Divine saufflees of milk and maize,
Aseptic apricot sorbets,
And pommes de terre au Bordelaise
You never will forget.

So leave the haunts, where carnivores
Their cruel passions piy
And seek the spot, where seeds and spores
Develop their nutritious stores,
Where men are holy herbivores
And butchers ne'er are nigh!

As Bill Says, "The County Chairman" Is "Framed in the Prodigality of Nature"

"The County Chairman" has carried St. Louis.

The returns were all in by 11:15 o'clock last night, when an audience that filled every seat and box in the Century Theater arose as one man and said as plainly as a polite audience could say it:

"Bully!"

As Bill says, "the play's the thing we've been looking for."

It is a comedy drama by George Ade, produced by Henry W. Savage. It tickled the audience more than a show has tickled a St. Louis audience since "The Yankee Consul" was here last winter.

As Bill says, it is "framed in the prodigality of nature."

Bill who? Why, Bill Shakespeare, of course.

Thank heaven, we're done for the nonce with Harry B. Smith and Leo Ditrichstein and their sometimes lack-luster humor, and back to real humor of George Ade, which mirrors Americanism!

It is the first Ade to the injured sense of humor that waits and waits for something really worth laughing at.

Bill says something about blaming the fault and not the actors thereof, but the remark does not apply to "The County Chairman," for some of the acting is nothing short of execrable, while the sins of the piece from a certain point of view are easily covered by the box receipts.

This is the first straight comedy drama we have had from Ade. It is somewhat "straining the quality" of criticism, as Bill says, to say that it is anything more than a good show. It is funny, but it is a broad, billboard sort of fun except in some of the political satire in the lines.

"The County Chairman" is not a compliment to our sense of humor. It lets everybody in on the joke, which is broad and capacious, that we may all stand side by side upon the huge surface of the fun of it.

There are none so poor in wit that they may not see the point in "The County Chairman."

Like the ark, it is built good and broad. There is an exaggeration of rural types that makes a man raised in the country wince. Of course, Ade knows it. He meant that it should be so. How may we know a Hoosier, all of us, save he have hay in his hair, wear his long pants short and break out now and then with "golldarn it, b'gosh?"

Ade is an artist in the selection of types. Picking the political boss which no county is without was a happy thought. There are others in the cast almost as cleverly chosen, but nothing else so worthy of the author as the county chairman.

If the members of the company could present the types with even half the cleverness with which Ade has chosen them "The County Chairman" would be a better performance by 50 per cent. For boys that are not boys, town loungers that look like detectives hanging around in disguise, village wives that do not even get into the outskirts of the picture and unnaturalness in voice, inflection and manner, "The County Chairman" company takes the manna hot off the pan.

Doubtless, it will improve with service.

But pooh! The people cared not a rap for the failure of the company to stop off in Indiana on their way from the East for the purpose of absorbing a little of the atmosphere of Jefferson County. The people liked the story. They liked the words themselves. They liked the words Ade had put into mouths that often did not know what to do with them.

Jim Hackler, whose presentation in the person of Theododre Roberts reminds one of William J. Bryan; whose political sagacity suggests Ed Butler, and who wears a hat like Harry Hawes, is the principal character in the Ade play.

Hackler is the Democratic party boss in Jefferson County, Ind., and the nice people cross their fingers when they see him, which is a proof that he is all right politically, whatever he may be in other things.

Hackler has an enemy in Judge Rigby. When they were young they both loved the same girl. They were in the army together. Rigby handled the mail. He destroyed the letters which might have won the girl for Hackler. Hackler found it out—when it was too late, for the girl had married Rigby.

Rigby wants to be prosecuting attorney in Jefferson County. Hackler fights him, and means to defeat him. He trots out Tilford Wheeler, a likable chap who is the junior member of the law firm of Hackler & Wheeler. Wheeler is not aware that his name is to be presented to the convention, and when he hears that he has been nominated he is in torment. He is in love with Rigby's daughter. If he makes the race against the old man it will all be off with the girl, for Hackler will make such an ugly fight on Rigby that all of Rigby's people will live with the name of Wheeler as a curse on their lips.

It isn't often that a character in a play is placed between the devil and the deep sea with so much nicety as Ade places Wheeler there.

The story goes on to election day, and in the final scene we see the returns coming in. This is much the best scene in the play, almost equaling in dramatic strength the racetrack scene in "Checkers."

Ade gets out of it alive. He descends to melodrama a few times, and he has some of the real love which he so dearly loves to satirize; but he manages to work in his wit in great shape here and there, and the play delights the audience. It is terrible to think what it would be as the plain story without the Ade humor.

Theodore Roberts, who plays the part of Hackler, is the Theodore Roberts who once played here in stock. Mr. Savage has seen starring possibilities in him. He looks the part admirably, over-acts it now and then, gets into it splendidly at other times and averages up nicely. William Lamp, who plays the part of Tilford Wheeler, is going to be very pleasing in the role. He sees what it is. Florence Smythe as Lucy Rigby and Grace Romine as Mrs. Rigby are very capable people. George Thatcher, the minstrel, has a coon parasite part that is easy for him, and he appears at times to be the only member of the cast who is really in the skin of his part. It is almost amusing to see James Bradbury, as Jefferson Briscoe, hunt for the skin of his. It would be a shame to find fault with Will Phillips and Zenaide Williams, the windmill man and the milliner, and there isn't much fault to find anyway. Their roles are the best Ade has chosen for the piece after that of the boss politician.

"Mother Goose" opens at the Olympic Theater tonight. The first night of the biggest show on tour in America will be an event in the World's Fair theatrical season.

Blanche Bates had more applicants for seats for "The Darling of the Gods" than the Imperial Theater could accommodate last night. The piece is, now in its sixth week, and it is doing a remarkable business.

The Olympic was closed last night and the Century turned hundreds of people away.

* * *

The Delmar Garden "Louisiana" will begin its downtown career at Music Hall next Sunday afternoon. It has run 15 weeks at the garden. The Music Hall is being arranged to accommodate it, and the big historical spectacle play will be a downtown attraction all the rest of the fall.

* * *

"Buster Brown" began its second and last week at the Grand yesterday, with more patrons than seats. The polishing fun of this piece is much to the liking of visitors in the city, and Buster and Tige always have many lookers-on when they are in mischief.

Kiralfy is working wonders with his Louisiana Purchase spectacle at the Odeon. He has improved it so much within the past month that it scarcely looks like the same show. Everything moves with the precision of machinery and the big army of performers is handled almost as one person. At last Kiralfy seems to have realized his dream of giving to the World's Fair visitors a spectacle that will linger in their memories. The costumes and scenery are notable and there is a striking array of pretty girls. There was a standing-room only crowd out Sunday night, and it bubbled over with appreciation. The various features were repeatedly encored. The Pony ballet and the girls who play national airs with sleigh bells were especially appreciated. To those who earlier in the season found some tediousness in sitting through the long ballets it may be truthfully said now there isn't an uninteresting moment. As a spectacle to delight the eye, Kiralfy's show is now all that could be desired.

The new bill which goes on at Columbia this afternoon contains the following: Ross, Fenton and company, Caron and Herbert Trocadero quartet, Borani and Nevaro, Von Klein and Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lucier, Ferrall brothers, William Windom, Carberry and Stanton, George Austin, Morris and Parker, Charlotte Ravenscroft, and the kinodrome.

"The Girl With the Auburn Hair," in finer voice than ever, presented for the seventh consecutive season her beautiful scenic act at Forest Park Highlands last night. The really exquisite singing of sacred music of the girl is a treat. Bobby Mack is a capital entertainer and quite a singer of funny songs. Phyllis Allen is a songstress of note in vaudeville, presenting a pleasing repertoire. The five Mowatts, in an expert juggling exhibition with all sorts of clubs, are surpassing all their previous efforts. George Techow has a dozen of well-trained cats, who do all sorts of stunts, the last one being a high jump from a pole by a tabby. Van Clevel's donkey performance is another laughable feature of the show.

* * *

The Four Rainos head the bill at Mannion's Park this week. Leah Russell, dialect comedienne, is pleasing. Goodman and Wright, black-faced singing and dancing comedians; the three Ridgleys and Madame LaMott are capable people.

* * *

The two big audiences which witnessed the opening performances of the fifteenth week of "Louisiana" at Delmar Garden yesterday prove conclusively that nothing succeeds like success. In spite of the somewhat autumnal character of the weather, the audiences were fully as large in size and as enthusiastic in character as any that have witnessed the production during its run.

* * *

Carrie Ashley Clarke's drama, "For Mother's Sake," opened at the Crawford Theater yesterday afternoon with Marie Heath, a very capable young actress, in the principal role. It is a rural play of many charms, and will be quite to the liking of the patrons of the Crawford.

* * *

"A Working Girl's Wrongs," which opened at Havlin's yesterday afternoon, is such a melodrama as delights the hearts of the throng which goes to Havlin's. The play is by Hal Reid, and it is the most thrilling thing he has done. He has injected into it all the elements of melodrama, and what with scenes in a cigarette factory, in the home of the heroine, Mamie, and in the office of the warden at Sing Sing, it is rich enough in the lower walks of life. Helen Warren plays the heroine.

The most novel and entertaining act on the program at West End Heights this week is that of Rawson and June. They are experts with weapons of savage warfare, particularly the Australian boomerang. Belle Gordon, the physical culture girl, does a bag punching turn. Ruth Nelta gave some vocal selections, a number of imitations of negro dialect and a couple of "coon" songs that were well received.

* * *

"Lost Paradise" is presented at Suburban Garden this week by the stock company headed by Irwin Blunkall. The company is capable of some very good acting, and pleases more than anything offered in the garden theater during the summer.

CITY SCHOOLS ARE READY FOR OPENING

Sixty Thousand Children Will Forsake Playgrounds for Desks at 9 O'Clock Tuesday Morning.

Sixty thousand school children are expected to sit up straight when the teachers in the various schools of St. Louis rap on their desks for order at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. It is estimated that the total enrollment on opening day last year will be eclipsed by at least two thousand pupils.

The new Yeatman high school on Natural Bridge road east of Grand avenue will be opened for the first time tomorrow, and it is expected the enrollment there will be over 600. The new school will be in charge of Principal J. W. Withers and Assistant Principal Knox of the Central high school.

The only school which will occupy a new building is the Cote Brilliante, which will move into a large new structure on Cottage avenue a few blocks west of Taylor avenue.

An innovation in the course of instruction in the high schools will be the establishment of a more thorough business course, by means of which students may obtain the instruction of a regular business college, with the addition of a good general education. In addition to bookkeeping and shorthand, which has been taught heretofore, the three high schools will be equipped with banking rooms and for the practical instruction of the pupils, and also a large supply of typewriting machines for the course in stenography.

At a meeting in the auditorium of the Central High School Monday morning about 1200 teachers and principals were addressed by Supt. F. Louis Soldan with regard to the opening of the schools. Supt. Soldan spoke of the new rules that have been made and also cautioned the teachers about obtaining a correct enrollment.

Mr. Soldan referred to the work which has been done at the World's Fair in the Educational building and complimented the local educators in their share in the great exhibit. He spoke of the many benefits to be derived from a conscientious study of the numerous exhibits at the Fair, and urged the teachers to continue the work of conducting their classes on tours of instruction and pleasure.

Although he could not state positively, Supt. Soldan said that it is very probable that all the public schools will be closed on St. Louis day and that the teachers may continue their preparations for that day. It is expected that about 10,000 children will engage in gymnastic exhibitions at the Stadium, and he urged all teachers to help them secure a large attendance.

DETECTIVES HUNT WOMAN IN BLACK

Supposed to Have Stolen $1000 in Jewels and $100 in Money at the World's Fair.

A mysterious woman in black was sought at the World's Fair grounds all Monday morning by detectives and Jefferson Guards.

She is supposed to have stolen jewels worth $1000 and $100 in cash from Mrs. A. R. Bailey of Sacramento, Cal.

Mrs. Bailey was a visitor at the Agriculture building early Monday morning. She is acquainted with Judge J. H. Wills, who has charge of the Sacramento County exhibit there. The judge was cutting cloth for decoration about the exhibit, and Mrs. Bailey laid her purse aside a moment to assist him. A moment later the purse was missed. It contained two pins and a ring set with diamonds, and the money.

A Jefferson Guard was summoned and told that a woman in black had been sitting near Mrs. Bailey just a moment before the purse disappeared, and that this woman had also disappeared very suddenly. Judge Wills says she has been seen about the exhibit a number of times. Information of the robbery and the clew was hurried to the entrances, but up to noon the guards and detectives watching had nothing to report.

FLOCKS WAITED; PASTOR IN JAIL

Colored Ministers Come to Blows Over Elizabeth Brown and Were Locked Up.

Elizabeth Brown's dusky beauty and Policeman Robert's eagle eye combined to rob two congregations—one in St. Louis and one in East St. Louis—of their pastors Sunday night.

While the congregations waited and possibly prayed for their respective shepherds, Rev. William Loston and Rev. Thomas Moss, both negroes, sat disconsolate in a cell at the Deere Street Police Station.

Lotson's pulpit may again be vacant next Sunday night, unless one of his flock appears at the Dayton Street Police Court with $8. Moss, however, is again ready for preaching, having paid $3 costs assessed against him.

Elizabeth Brown is a member of the Church of God at 4059 Cottage avenue. She is good-looking, light-complexioned and dresses stylishly. In fact, she is said to be the belle of the congregation.

Thomas Moss was formerly pastor of the church. Several months ago he was succeeded by William Loston. Moss then became pastor of the Church of God in East St. Louis.

But Moss did not forget Elizabeth Brown. He arranged special services for Sunday night, prepared an exceptional sermon and asked Miss Brown for the privilege of escorting her to his new church. She accepted.

Moss called for her about 7 o'clock and they started for East St. Louis. Her home is near the St. Louis Church of God. When they reached Euclid and Cottage avenues they met Loston, who lives at 4304 Cottage avenue.

Miss Brown stepped aside and a fight was on.

Loston says Moss tried to choke him. Moss says Loston struck at him with a Bible, which he carried in a steel-bound case, fitted with a handle.

Arraigned before Judge Pollard in the courtroom over the station, they refused to be sworn, saying it was against the teachings of the church, but said they would "affirm."

Judge Pollard became interested as they affirmed.

"What are you doing with that lunch-box?" he said to Loston, not knowing the vocations of the prisoners or the occasion of their appearance, and pointing to something in Loston's hand.

"That's not a lunch-box, your honor, Loston said in an offended tone, "that's a Bible, the gospel, your honor."

"You preach 'peace on earth,'" quoted the court, "why don't you practice it?"

Each prisoner said the other was the reason.

"Five dollars each and costs," said Judge Pollard to the marshal, "and your fine is stayed," pointing to Moss, "because the other man was the aggressor."

Moss dug up $3 and proudly left the courtroom at the same time that Elizabeth Brown walked out. Loston remained, hoping that some of the sheep of his flock would arrive with a double quartet of simoleons.

GILL'S SUPPORTERS TO PLAN CAMPAIGN

Meeting to Consider Methods for Pushing Glass Blower's Congressional Candidacy, Tonight.

The delegates and supporters of Michael J. Gill, candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress from the Twelfth district, will hold a meeting Monday evening in the hall at Park and Compton avenues for the purpose of discussing the best means of cambating the opposing delegations.

Mike Gill, the glassblower, who has already made one race for Congress, declares that he is unqualifiedly opposed to the Butler element. He says the thinking people of the district are for him, an dthat if they are given an opportunity to do their own thinking at the polls they will win the race for him.

Despite the fact that Jim Butler has steadfastly maintained that he is not a candidate, Mr. Gill declares that the delegates opposed to him are all Butler men, and that the saloon intrests and politicians who are fighting him are all friends of Butler.

At any rate, he says, the four men who control the element opposed to him—John McCarthy, Billy Flynn, Judge Kielber and Lou Guion—are all Butlerites.

"Never before, in all the history of our country, was there greater need of a man in the halls of Congress who comes from the rank of the industrial masses," said Mr. Gill, speaking of his own candidacy. "A man who thoroughly understands the labor situation, one who is not imbued with the 'ifisms' now agitating the minds of the toiling masses, one who believes that capital has its rights as well as duties, and who is thoroughly in accord with the views promulgated by the National Civic Federation, wherein capital and labor come together to meet on a common ground, and where labor is taught to believe that his employer is not his enemy, but his friend.

ALEXANDER JESTER COMES TO THE FAIR

Denies Report That He Made Deathbed Confession to Killing of John W. Gates' Brother.

Alexander Jester, who four years ago was tried and acquitted at New London, Mo., on the charge of murdering Gilbert A. Gates, a brother of John W. Gates, in 1871, is in St. Louis, having come from Renfrow, O. T., where he is engaged in the livery business, to visit the World's Fair. Jester is accompanied by a number of other Oklahoma citizens, all of whom will spend several days of Oklahoma week at the Fair.

Jester vigorously denies the reported confession, which was given publicity recently. The report of the confession originated in Carbondale, Ill., and stated that while on his deathbed, Jester had confessed to the murder of Gates, who was a brother of Millionaire John W. Gates.

Jester is now in the best of health. He says he has never felt better in his life, and that he has not been ill recently. He declares the reported confession to be false. How the report originated Jester says he does not know, nor have others been able to learn.

He is now 81 years old, but says he is good for several years more on earth, and that nothing could have induced him to remain away from the World's Fair. This is his first visit to this city since 1871, at the time he made the trip across the country in a covered wagon in company with Gates.

CAR OVERTURNS, ONLY ONE HURT

Passengers Made Rush for the Door, but Conveyance Toppled Before They Got Out.

Much excitement was caused by the overturning of a crowded Grand avenue car at Humphrey street last night, after it had left the rails, but only one passenger, Mrs. Mary Riley of 3414 Henrietta street, was injured. She suffered a badly sprained leg.

The car was northbound and was proceeding at an ordinary rate of speed, when it suddenly left the rails, ran on the pavement to the gutter, where it overturned. The moment the passengers realized the car was off the track, a number, remembering the recent similar accident at Jefferson avenue and Pestalozzi street, arose from their seats with the intention of leaving the car, but before they had time to do so it was overturned and was lying upon its side.

Mrs. Riley was standing upon the rear platform, intending to alight from the car, and was thrown to the ground. The other passengers clambered out of the car and all found themselves to be uninjured. Neither the conductor, C. B. Lynch, nor the motorman, M. J. Lyons, jumped, and both escaped without a scratch. The car is damaged about $100.

FIREMEN FIND HOT ARGUMENT

But Fail to Disclose Any Evidence of Fire and Return to Quarters Leaving Dispute Unsettled.

On their arrival at 323 North Main street Monday in response to a fire alarm from Second and Locust streets, the nearest engine company found the police and the employes of the St. Louis Manufacturing Co., at the north Main street address, disputing over whether or not there had been a fire in the basement of the manufacturing company's building.

The police said there had, and small boys who were in the neighborhood when the alarm was turned in aided their side of the dispute by declaring they had smelled smoke. The manufacturing company's employes said the fire had been merely imaginary. The engine company returned to quarters, leaving the dispute still in progress.

GARBAGE BILL DELAY VIOLATES CITY CHARTER

Affiliated Business Men's Association Calls City Counselor's Attention to Forty-Day Limit for Holding Legislation in Committee.

THREATEN MANDAMUS SUIT TO COMPEL HOUSE TO ACT

Measure Designed to Thwart Another Exorbitant Contract Has Been in Sanitary Committee Pigeon-Hole for Fifty-Two Days.

Chairman Charles F. Ziebold of the joint committee of the Affiliated Business Men's Association has sent a letter to City Counselor Bates, calling attention to the fact that the House of Delegates has violated a provision of the city charter by permitting the garbage bill to remain in the sanitary committee for more than 40 days continuously.

The committee has held the bill, without an attempt at action on it, since July 15, or 52 days to date.

In case the letter to Mr. Bates fails to secure action on the bill, it is declared by the joint committee that it will go into court and mandamus the sanitary committee to report the bill.

The letter to Mr Bates, calling attention to the charter violation, is as follows:

Dear Sir—Our joint committee, representing the above-named associations (North St. Louis Business Men's Association, South Broadway Merchants' Association, West End Business Men's Association, Southwestern Mercantile Association, Tenth Ward Improvement Association) has been making every proper and reasonable effort to prevail on the members of the House of Delegates to take action on the garbage bill, but without avail.

And inasmuch as the House has permitted the bill to rest with its sanitary committee beyond the 40 days provided by our city charter in such cases, and has voted down a resolution calling on the sanitary committee to report the bill, we beg to call the matter to your attention, and to be advised by your office whether such action on the part of the House does not create a situation calling for such action by your office as will compel the House to observe and follow the provisions of the charter in its deliberations. And if you should find that it is proper and permissible for your office to intervene, to the end that some action on the bill may be had, we respectfully beg that you will take such action in the matter as may be appropriate to the occasion. Very respectfully,
JOINT COMMITTEE OF AFFILIATED BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION,
By Charles F. Riebold, chairman.

One of the reasons given by Delegate John R. McCarthy for the dilatory action of the House is that Mr. Bates has not yet said the bill is "all right." It is expected that Mr. Bates' reply to Mr. Ziebold's letter will contain his opinon on this point.

No Doubt of Competition.

A member of the board of public improvements, who shared in designing the plan of garbage reduction contemplated by the bill, said to the Post-Dispatch today:

"The city will have no trouble in finding a bidder for the new garbage reduction contract, if the House ever passes the bill.

"The plan that will be followed, if the bill passes, will be to establish the three receiving stations on the river front, just as the city dumps are now. The garbage will be hauled there and the contractor will take it down the river on barges and dispose of it. There will be no trouble to find a place five miles below the city to do this. There are deodorizing processes now which will not make the reduction plant offensive to the locality in which it is placed.

"There is one company I know of, in Cleveland, that will bid for the contract under these conditions."

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 5.—A school children's strike is seriously threatened here. Patrons of the public schools residing in the territory in the south portion of the city are indignant over the manner in which the boundary lines were fixed for the new Lawrence school. Because of this feeling more than 50 pupils were absent this morning at the opening session. A petition was circulated yesterday to be presented to the board of education tonight demanding that the boundary lines be replaced as they were.

PHOSPHORUS IN HIS POCKET; BOY AFIRE

Lad Thought Yellow Lump Candy, Shoved It Down Trousers and May Die From Burns.

Little Johnnie Carey, 7 years old, who is at the City Hospital suffering from dangerous burns about the body, does not yet know why a lump of yellow wax, which he thought was candy, and put in his pocket to save for a future feast, set fire to his clothing, resulting in burns which hospital physicians say will probably result fatally.

The yellow lump was phosphorus, which, aside from setting fire to his clothing, inflicted dangerous burns on his flesh wherever it touched.

The Carey boy, who lives at 1400 O'Fallon street, was playing with his brother Willie, aged 6, Sunday afternoon when the younger boy found the lump of phosphorus.

It was about the size of two lumps of loaf sugar.

"Here's some candy," called the younger boy and tossed it to his brother.

Johnnie failed to catch it, but the phosphorus stuck to his waist. He pulled the lump off and placed in his pocket. As he did so the slight friction of the cloth and phosphorus caused the latter to take fire and in an instant the boy's clothing was in flames. He ran into a nearby doorway and a woman who heard his screams, ran out and extinguished the flames with a bucket of water. The boy was then taken to the hospital.

WIRELESS OVERLAND RECORD IS BROKEN

Messages Are Successfully Sent From World's Fair to Springfield, Ill., Greatest Distance Yet Attained.

Wireless messages were sent from the World's Fair grounds a greater distance over land Monday than they have ever been sent before in this country. They were sent from the tower near the Jerusalem exhibit to Springfield, Ill., a distance of 105 miles.

A number of messages were sent and answers received.

Messages of congratulation were exchanged by President D. R. Francis and Gov. Richard Yates, Mayor Devereaux of Springfield and Mayor Wells of St. Louis, Col. Charles F. Mills and Thomas G. Gregory, Secretary of State James A. Rose and Hon. H. M. Dunlap, president of the Illinois World's Fair commission, and Fred A. Busse and Walter Williams of the Missouri commission.

The operator at the Fair, F. E. Butts, did not even know where the receiving station at Springfield was. He was simply told to send a message to Springfield and he shot it off the tower. It was caught at Springfield and the answer came back. After that messages flew back and forth rapidly.

NELSON-HERRERA BOUT TODAY.

Britt and Young Corbett Must Meet the Montana Athletic Club Victor.

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 5.—This afternoon when Aurelio Herrera and "Battling" Nelson clash in the arena of the Montana Athletic Club a battle will occur which will bring to the front a new contender for the light and featherweight championships. Jimmy Britt and Young Corbett must meet the winner of this bout or acknowledge him his master. The attendance will be —— to 10,000. The hotels are crowded with enthusiasts who have traveled hundreds of miles to see the contest.

Herrera weighs 129½ pounds. His complexion is clear and he looks fit in every way for the greatest fight of his life.

Nelson is just at weight. He is a picture of health and ruggedness.

Herrera is still favorite at 4 to 5, while 11 to 10 can be obtained on Nelson.

The preliminary will begin at 3 o'clock sharp.

SKIN DISEASES

Altoona, Pa., June 20, 1903.

I was afflicted with Tetter in bad shape. It would appear in blotches as large as my hand, a yellowish color, and would scale off. You can imagine how offensive it was. For twelve years I was afflicted with this trouble, and at night it was a case of scratch and many times no rest at all. Seeing the good the medicine was doing a friend who was taking it for Eczema, I commenced it, and as a result the eruption began to dry up and disappear, and to-day I am practically a well man. Only two tiny spots are left on the elbow and shin, where once the whole body was affected. I have every confidence in the world in the medicine, and feel sure that in a short time these two remaining spots will disappear. S. S. S. is certainly a great blood purifier, and has done me a world of good. I am grateful for what it has accomplished, and trust that what I have said will lead others who are similarly afflicted to take the remedy and obtain the same good results that I have.

125 East Fifth Ave. JOHN F. LEAR.

While washes, soaps, salves and powders relieve temporarily, they do not reach the real cause of the disease. The blood must be purified before the cure is permanent. S. S. S. contains no potash, arsenic or mineral of any description, but is guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our book on the skin and its diseases, which is mailed free. Our physicians will cheerfully advise without charge any who write us about their case.

CARDINALS BEATEN IN A CLOSE GAME

King Nick's Patched-Up Team Put Up a Poor Contest, as Did the Cubs From Chicago.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

LEAGUE PARK, ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5.—Selee's Chicago Cubs treated the Cardinals and some 2000 of their rooters to a close defeat in the morning Labor Day game at League Park. The final score was 3 to 1. In spite of the close score and lack of scoring the game was very weak in most places. The Cardinals' patched up team could not get to working, and while Taylor was touched up for but eight hits they were inserted at the proper time, and few of them went to waste.

The Cardinals' only run was the result of Tinker's error, giving Dunleavy a life, followed later by a passed ball and some headless work by Kling and Evers' skyline pass to the plate.

Ten men left on the bases tell the story of the Cardinals' defeat. In the last inning with Burke on third, Barclay running for Zearfoss on first and two down, Mike Grady smashed the ball to center, but not hard enough to get it away from McCarthy, and the game was over.

FIRST INNING—For Chicago, Slagle bunted safely. Barry sacrificed. Chance lined to Smoot, doubling Slagle at second. No runs.

For St. Louis, Farrell out, Tinker to Chance. Shannon beat out a hit to Tinker. Beckley fouled to Chance. Shannon stole and went to third on Kling's wild throw. Brain fanned. No runs.

SECOND INNING—For Chicago, McCarthy out, Grady to Beckley. Ditto Kling. Evers walked and was safe stealing when Grady muffed the throw. Jones fanned. No runs.

For St. Louis, McLean flied to Evers. Smoot lined into Jones' hands. Dunleavy was hit and stole second. Burke fanned. No runs.

THIRD INNING—For Chicago, Briggs beat out a slow one over second. Slagle bunted safely and Barry forced him. Brain to Grady. Chance singled to center, scoring Briggs. McCarthy out, Burke to Beckley. One run.

For St. Louis, Taylor fouled to Kling. Grady out, Barry to Chance. Shannon singled and Beckley was out to Chance unassisted. No runs.

FOURTH INNING—For Chicago, Kling lined hard into Brain, but Davy held on. Evers flied to Shannon. Jones tapped to Taylor. No runs.

For St. Louis, Brain out, Barry to Chance. McLean singled to right. Smoot flied to Slagle. Dunleavy out, Tinker to Chance. No runs.

FIFTH INNING—For Chicago, Tinker hit to center and stole second. Briggs fanned. Slagle grounded to Taylor and was out at first, Tinker advancing. He scored on Barry's grounder to center. Chance fouled to McLean. One run.

For St. Louis, Burke popped to Barry. Taylor was thrown out by Evers after a good stop. Grady smashed a long fly to McCarthy. No runs.

SIXTH INNING—For Chicago, McCarthy hit safely. Kling sacrificed. Evers hit through Beckley, McCarthy scoring. Jones flied to Shannon. Tinker out, Taylor to Beckley. One run.

For St. Louis, Shannon grounded to Tinker. Beckley died the same way. Brain walked. McLean fanned. No runs.

SEVENTH INNING—For Chicago, Briggs popped to Taylor. Slagle walked and Barry forced him. Burke to Brain. Chance out, Brain to Beckley. No runs.

For St. Louis, Smoot retired from Evers. Dunleavy was safe on Tinker's error. Barry made a good running catch of Burke's foul. Taylor singled to center, Kling let a ball by and threw to second. Evers made a wild return to catch Dunleavy, the latter scoring on the error. Grady walked. Taylor was caught between the bases on an attempted double steal. One run.

EIGHTH INNING—For Chicago, McCarthy flied to Smoot. Kling out, Brain to Beckley. Evers tapped to Taylor. No runs.

For St. Louis, Shannon hit to Barry and took second on his poor pass to first. Beckley popped to Kling. Brain raised a long fly to Slagle, Shannon taking third on the throw in. McLean flied to McCarthy. No runs.

NINTH INING—For Chicago, Jones flied to Dunleavy. Tinker was safe on Brain's fumble. Briggs flied to Brain. Tinker stole second and third. Slagle flied to Smoot. No runs.

For St. Louis, Smoot fanned. Dunleavy flied to McCarthy. Burke singled to left. Zearfoss batted for Taylor and beat out a slow one toward third. Barclay ran for Zearfoss. Grady lined to McCarthy. No runs.

Everett Knocks Out Gardiner.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Jack Gardiner of Chicago has been knocked out in the ninth round of a fight with "Kid" Everett of this city. The bout was held on the banks of the Hudson opposite Yonkers, and was witnessed by 200 enthusiasts who went to the scene in launches. Gardiner had much the worst of the battle through the seventh and eighth rounds. In the ninth he rallied, but was knocked down and took the count. When he got up Everett sent a jab to the jaw which sent him down and out. He did not recover consciousness until 20 minutes later.

RACETRACK WAR AT NEW ORLEANS

Crescent City Jockey Club Soliciting Entries Here—Will Give New Course a Warm Fight.

Harry White, assistant secretary of the Crescent City Jockey Club of New Orleans, called at the Post-Dispatch office this morning and stated that Mr. C. S. Bush, president of his club, had sent him to St. Louis to solicit horses for the New Orleans winter meeting.

"Mr. Bush authorizes me to announce that there will be 100 days of racing at his track next winter," said Mr. White. "He has made preparations to open on Nov. 24. The Crescent City Derby will have $5000 added money, and the club will add an aggregate of $35,000 to its other stakes. The purse offerings for the meeting will aggregate $2700 daily. I have already booked stall room at the Crescent City track for 325 horses from the Fair Grounds and Delmar.

"What about the new track at New Orleans?" Mr. White was asked.

"Well, I understand that they are going right ahead with the construction of the new plant," said Mr. White, "but Mr. Bush evidently is paying no attention whatever to the threatened opposition. He has simply authorized me to announce that there will be 100 days of racing at his track next winter, and you know that won't leave much for the other fellows."

"Mr. Bush is going on the theory that priority is everything. He built up the racing game in New Orleans to its present healthy state, and I don't suppose he will sacrifice anything in the way of racing dates. It has been the custom of the Crescent City Jockey Club to race 100 days every winter for the past ten years."

C. S. Bush is one of the stewards of the Western Jockey Club. H. D. Brown is the chief promoter of the new track at New Orleans. He has interested a lot of prominent New Orleans business men with him in the enterprise, and it looks as though there will be a fight to a finish for the supremacy in the Crescent City.

CHAMPION FENCER IN TOURNEY

Cuban, Who Holds Amatur Title, Enters Stadium Contests.

An important entry for the fencing championship, to be descided at the Stadium, World's Fair, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, is that of Ramon Fonst of Havana, Cuba, who holds the amateur championship of the world, having won the title at the Paris tournament in 1900. Mr. Fonst is only 23 years old and has gone undefeated through 21 turnaments.

About ten entries have been received for the Olympic championships, including three Americans, and the matches will be close and interesting. The contests will be with broadswords, foils and sticks.

COLONIAL GIRL STARTS TODAY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Colonial Girl, conqueror of Hermis in the $50,000 World's Fair handicap at St. Louis, will make her metropolitan debut in the Ocean handicap at Sheepshead Bay today. The race is at one mile and Colonial Girl has 111 pounds up. McChesney is in the stake with 125 pounds and Aalan-a-Dale has 120 pounds up. Globes Defeat Floerkes.

The Globes defeated the Floerkes Sunday afternoon before one of the largest crowds of the season at Zimmerman's Park by a score of 6 to 4. Wallis was in the box for the Globes and allowed the Floerkes only two hits in the first eight innings. In the ninth inning he cased up and allowed his opponents to secure three hits and a base on balls, coupled with an error, giving them four runs. Murray, for the Globes, led his team in hitting, getting a home run and a triple out of three times up. Winkelmeyer caught a good game for the Globes.

PACKERS MEET MEN AND SETTLE STRIKE

Chicago Report Asserts Employers Made Concessions and Vote in New York Was First Step.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—As the result of a conference just held between representatives of the unions involved in the packing-house strike and of the owners of the plants, the end of the long labor strike struggle is set for the middle of this week, according to one who should know what is doing.

An understanding was arrived at by which the men will meet today or tomorrow and vote on the question of calling off the strike. According to the plans made, they will be instructed to cast their ballots in the affirmative.

These plans were made with secrecy and care. They originated a week ago in Chicago with certain of the packers and conservative labor leaders. Fearing the scheme would fail if attempted first in Chicago, it was determined to make the first move in New York.

The ending of the strike in the eastern city by the vote of the men on Saturday was the first step. The settlement there made is the same now proposed for Chicago. The following are the chief points of the arrangement:

The unions to call off the strike.

The packers to re-employ as many of the strikers as they can give work to, and to give the preference to the former employes in the future.

As many of the new workers as wish to remain are to be retained.

Wages of skilled men to remain at the rate paid before the strike.

The packers, who have often declared they would not meet the labor men, will undoubtedly deny today that a conference has been held. But the fact remains that duly authorized representatives of the owners of the packing plants did meet the labor men.

Four switches on the Chicago Junction tracks in the vicinity of stockyards were torn out last night, signals, track and all, by some unidentified persons in an alleged effort to wreck trains in carrying meat from packing plants. The absence of the switchlights was discovered in time, however, to prevent an accident, and a guard of policemen has been placed along the tracks to prevent any further attempt at train wrecking.

Michael Killeen, president of the Live-stock Handlers' Union; Nicholas Gier, president of the Packing Trades Council; John F. Loersh, secretary of the council and President Donnelly have had a conference with W. E. Skinner of the Union Stockyards and Transit Co. It was said peace terms in the stockyards strike were talked of.

President Donnelly and Thomas J. Conners of Armour & Co., held a conference last Saturday night at the downtown office of Armour & Co. Mr. Donnelly denied there had een such a meeting, but the packers admitted there had. They declined, however, to explain its significance. Both labor leaders and packing-house representatives were reticent today when speaking about the reported meeting between the packers and strikers.

Louis Swift of Swift & Co. said: "If there was a meeting between the two parties I heard nothing about it, and our firm was not represented."

Cass Schmitt, first vice-president of the butchers' union, said: "I am not in a position to talk of the matter. There may have been a meeting, but I cannot say."

President Donnelly declined to discuss the report that the first move to settle the strike was the return of 2500 men in New York.

CHAMPIONS LEAVE FOR HOMES

Greatest of All Athletic Games Marred Only by Chicago's Protest of New York's Victory.

With the exception of the athletes who have stayed over to see the World's Fair and to take part in the Labor Day games practically all who competed in the Olympic championships have left St. Louis for their homes.

The New York and Milwaukee teams left in a body, most of the unattached entries have departed, and in a few days the Olympic games will be only a "glorious memory."

From an athletic standpoint the games were unquestionably the greatest ever held on the western hemisphere and probably in the world, at least in modern times. The handling of the games, the arrangement of the program and the general conduct of the games at the hands of the officials, was excellent throughout.

Too much credit cannot be given Chief James E. Sullivan for the success of the games. Chief Sullivan worked early and late in every branch of the contests and was always on the field handling the progress of the competitions in person. He worked himself harder than he did any man on his staff and at the close looked as if he was on the verge of nervous prostration.

The unsportmanslike conduct of one of the contestants was the only objectionable feature of the games and this did not manifest itself until the last day. Chicago's Saturday protest of a Monday event did not make them any friends and it will be an eighth wonder if the board of directors of the A. A. U. sustains the objection to the competition of John Dewitt.
